Let's Go! . . .

It's All Over

Now . . . All But Our Memories . . .

memories of the mad whirlwind just ended . . . of senior pictures . . . assemblies . . . election of officers . . . committees . . . caps and gowns . . . the Senior Mixer . . . the Cruise . . . and at last the Big Day itself, with graduation, the luncheon, and the Prom.

And where are we going? For most of the boys there is but one answer. For many of the girls the answer is the same. But whether we don uniforms and cross oceans or do our bit here—in college, office, home, or factory—we shall be united in our aim: to make a better world for future graduates to enter!

Now that the time has come, we find ourselves just a little reluctant to leave the friendly security of our high school life. We are thankful for four years of pleasant memories, some of which will remain with us always . . . This is our book—a permanent record of Redford as we'll remember it—a book to remind us especially of our senior year

It was "June in January" to the seniors when they met to consider four worthy pin-ups for the Spring Class of '44.

FORMULA FOR PANCAKES

"Formula for Pancakes." You take one cup of flour—Hey! Wait a minute! That's the name of this term's senior play, a comedy by Muriel Roy Bolton and a smashing success when presented in our auditorium, May 19 and 20, by a double cast of 26 seniors.

The scene is a room in a girls' dormitory at an American university, and the story centers around Virginia Bailey, who is at college only for the fun it offers; "Pete" Peterson, who does his best to win Virginia's affections; Janet Martin, at school only to kill time before marrying Tom Allen; and Maureen Rennick, who is trying to win a scholarship. The window in Virginia and Janet's room is the emergency entrance for those who stay out too late, and the many who came through it added to the laughter and excitement.

The play was under the direction of Miss Cyretta Morford.

Although all the members of the play cast put together couldn't give you a very good formula for an appetizing dish, they certainly did make up a fine formula for a swell senior play.

At the far left, an informal snap shows three of the cast surveying the situation: Margaret Kaufman, Maribelle Horr, and Ruth Ainslee watch as Miss Morford put the other actors through their paces.

"What do you gentlemen talk about when you're alone?" Always an interesting question, but made even more so when asked of Bob Johnson by Audrey Lawrence in a scene from the play, as Sophia Jardine and Joyce Smith look on.

The fellow gazing so soulfully into Audrey Lawrence's lovely blue eyes is none other than Bud Gruschow. These two had the leading parts in the Friday night performance of the play.

William R. Stocking, Principal

FACULTY

To the Seniors of June 1944:

It would be hard to recognize most of you as the boys and girls who entered high school nearly four years ago—you have grown so much physically and mentally. Probably your outlook on life has changed also. You all realize, because of the tragic events of the last few years, that your future will be different from that of your fathers and mothers.

Most of you have made many friends while here and have had many good times. In after years some events will naturally remain vivid in your memory, as will some of your classmates; but the memory of many events and acquaintances will grow dimmer through the years. The purpose of the Senior Outpost is to help to keep a clear picture in your mind of so much that otherwise might be forgotten. Be sure to keep this splendid book, for in future years you would not part with it for anything.

Yours is a grand class. May your loyalty and good will grow stronger and stronger as the years pass. Do not forget us.

Sincerely your friend,

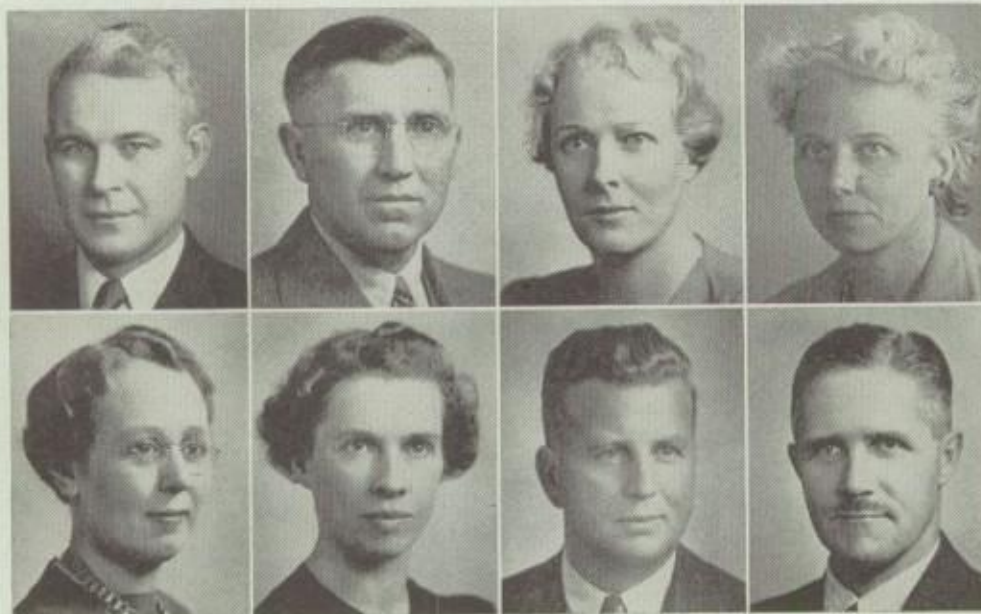

WM. R. STOCKING

Bob Baxter, Gloria Gadd, and Bill Husen examine this perfect wooden replica of a 5-cylinder airplane motor. Four hundred hours of his so-called "extra" time were invested in its construction by Mr. Rudolph Gaertner, head of the vocational department, after Mr. Frank Smith had made the preliminary drawings. Pictures and drawings of the model will be reproduced in the Bulletin of Teaching Devices published by the U. S. Government. The bulletin will be sent to areas having no airplane factories or airports, for use in pre-induction driving courses for boys.

In Mrs. Parker's pottery class, Pauline Barr kneads clay, while Patricia Kwart sketches a design on a plaque. Behind them is Therese Blaney's mural, now on exhibit in the all-city contest at the Art Institute.

Redford arts and crafts classes have participated in both county and state scholastic contests and have been awarded gold achievement keys. They also have portraits in the All-City Art Exhibit at the Art Institute. In addition, the classes have entered the Walker Poster contest, and the American Legion and D.A.V. Poppy contests.

The crafts classes have concentrated on jewelry, and on leather purses and portfolios; while pottery classes have made small animals of clay.

Infant jackets for Red Cross distribution and bed jackets for base hospitals have been made by home economics classes, whose discussions covered various clothing problems, such as those of the high school girl in her selection of a wardrobe.

You'd hardly recognize the sewing room since yellow curtains, plants for the windows, and new paint on the cupboards were added by the home economics classes under the direction of Miss DeMaris Wilson.

John Heaphy demonstrates an electrical experiment in Mr. Walton's physics class as Margaret Fishbeck, Alyce Mae Matchulat, Bob Reault, and Gloria Gadd watch with interest.

Illustrating the proceedings by which an alien becomes a citizen of the United States are Fred Samra, Lillian Freidrich, and Jay Gerber, members of Mr. Durham's Civics Class.

Keeping up the tradition established by her other students in past years, Miss Arms' Latin classes made these attractive classical valentines for that special day, February 14.

The circulation department, headed by Mr. Edwards, distributes all issues of the Outpost. Pictured at the left are two assistants, Janet Stevens and Barry Allman, helping Mr. Edwards count the papers for representatives to take back to their record rooms. The Outpost comes out six times a term. For the first time in Redford's history the paper has had eight pages every issue this term.

LINE-O-TYPE

Reading contributions which they hope will be accepted by the Outpost, are members of the Line-O-Type Club, organized by ninth and tenth grade students interested in journalism and creative writing. If a member has three articles accepted for publication, he is awarded the official pin, which is a line of actual type. The club receives advice from regular members of the Outpost staff, who give short talks at meetings.

Keeping abreast of the news is not the only job of the energetic Outpost staff. Their activities this term, besides publishing the school paper every three weeks have included helping to sponsor a successful war bond campaign to buy a Mitchell B-25 bomber, furnishing handbooks free of charge to new students, and promoting all school patriotic drives and organizations.

The advanced journalism class, taught by Miss Van Houten, is in reality the Outpost staff, without which there would be no school paper or senior annual. Members of this class really do work hard, and, as shown here, there is never a dull moment.

Baseball

This year's baseball schedule consisted of ten games, five home and five away. These games were played against Cooley, Central, Mackenzie, U. of D., and Western.

In their season opener against Central on May 3 the Huskies dropped a 4 to 3 decision to the Trailblazers. However, a week later they came back to trounce U. of D. 3 to 1 in their home opener.

John Wilcox, Harold Rutenbar, Bob Loomis, Bob Reault, Arden Riess, Jim Portz, and Ray Andrews were the returning lettermen.

PHYSICAL FITNESS

Uncle Sam will find no softies in the next batch of graduates, for Redford's physical fitness classes have gone through another strenuous season. Rough-house games have overshadowed formal exercises and calisthenics, and have built a fine spirit in the boys.

Pool classes, also, have not missed the extensive training program, for they have been put through much water practice and highly competitive swimming games.

Redford's thinclads went through a very successful season in track during March and April, losing only one meet to an outstanding Cooley squad, placing second in the West Side Meet and third in the city. Led by such stars as Joe Metz, Don Huff, and Dorian Farrell, the Huskies triumphed first over Central, then followed with victories over Northwestern and Mackenzie, and Mackenzie and Central in triangular meets.

The tracksters gave promise immediately in their first meet by swamping Central 80-6. Losing only the high jump event, Redford soared to heights that seemed to indicate they might capture the West Side crown. Cooley, however, dashed the Huskies hopes a week later by trouncing them 77 1/3 to 8 2/3, but the team came back with one-sided victories in the triangular meets that followed.

In the West Side Meet, Metz and the relay team again triumphed as the Huskies finished second to Cooley. In the City Meet, the half mile again went to Joe; and relayers Huff, Wilson, Milburn, and Farrell triumphed to put Redford third to Cooley and Miller.

RIGHT: Ready to go again are the members of the relay team, Don Huff, Bob Wilson, Fred Milburn, and Dorian Farrell. After taking the West Side meet, the boys went on to take first place in the city meet and end Cooley's domination in that event. Their victory helped Redford place third in the city.

Basketball

Bad luck dogged the footsteps of Redford's cagers throughout the basketball season, and several disheartening losses left them with a record of one tie and seven league defeats when the season closed.

U. of D., Central, Cooley, and Mackenzie furnished Redford's opposition throughout the season. The Huskies played each of these teams twice, and the best they could do was to gain a tie with Cooley in their first meeting.

In the annual Varsity-Faculty game, the senior boys trounced their heavier opposition 23 to 12. The senior girls had a narrower escape, for they won by only one point, the final score being 16 to 15.

Seen below are Paul Kiesel (22) and Jim Portz (14) straining every muscle to tip the ball into the basket during the second U. of D. game.

TENNIS

ROW 1: Mr. C. W. Sayres, Francis Widrig, Bill Sayres, Willie Drudge, John Hancock, Tom Sayres, Bill Lichtenberg, Doug Fritz.

TENNIS, GOLF

Bill Sayres, Bill Drudge, Doug Fritz, Francis Widrig, and John Hancock were the returning lettermen on this year's tennis team. With these veterans and promising newcomers Coach Sayres hoped to bring the City Tennis Championship back to Redford.

Coach Brown set out to restore lost golf honors to Redford, as two lettermen and several new stars started the season in this sport.

ROTC

ROTC enrollment this term was about 300, with two field officers, Cadet Lt. Col. Dorian Farrell and Cadet Richard Foss.

The rifle team placed high in the Sixth Corps Area Rifle Match, which was held early in March. Taking first place in the city, they either topped or tied 51 other teams, including some from essential military schools. As a reward, the Voiture 107 Trophy was added to the Huskies' collection of cups. T/Sgt. E. Grommon, ROTC instructor, led the team.

The American Legion Post in Redford awarded a cup to the best company in Redford's battalion at the annual Federal Inspection on Sawyer Field. The cup was named the Hermanson Cup in memory of Coach Hermanson, late athletic department head at Redford.

R.O.T.C. OFFICERS

RIFLE TEAM

FIRST ROW: Tennys Flake, Timothy Mahoney, Albert Paulger, Bob Rock and Carl Williams.

Girls' Sports

The girls' varsity basketball team finished the season without a victory, having been defeated by Cooley 44-9, Highland Park 44-10, Central 32-9, and Mackenzie 56-41—the last a highly contested game in which Joyce Williams collected 18 points and B. J. Wills 14. Northwestern then took the fifth contest 25-4, and the final went to Cass Tech, 20-10. High scorer for the season was Joyce Williams.

After receiving much aid from Mr. Silverberg and members of the boys' swimming team, the girl tankers, coached by Miss Kerber, lost their three meets to Cooley 46-14, Highland Park 68-42, and Northwestern 68-62.

Snapped in action at the Mackenzie game, is Shirley Stocker as she watches one of her team mates give that little extra something to send the ball back into action.

The National Honor Society is composed of outstanding students in the 11A, 12B, and 12A. Requirements for membership in this nationwide organization are high standards of character, scholarship, and service to the school.

Although limited in its activities this year, the Student Council has, as usual, worked in the used-book store, organized effective hall duty systems, and carried on war stamp and bond sales.

The hall duty captains, Opal Barrett, Lois Chambers, Bill Drudge, Dorothy Bowman, Peter Dietrich, Emily O'Donnell, Fred Blackwood, and Connie Jones have as their chairman Jim Jursik. The eighteen hall posts are covered each day by 150 students.

This term the Nescor Club's main project was the collection of scarce chemicals to renew the dwindling supply in the chemistry labs.

Members of the Biology Club helped to plan the very successful Arbor Day Rally. They had charge of obtaining and planting the trees.

Members of the Latin Club attended many interesting meetings of the Junior Classical League this term. Mr. Marks, sponsor of the club, conducted a very unusual class in Greek, which met once a week.

Le Cercle Francais, better known as the French Club, was reorganized this term under the sponsorship of Mr. del Gaudio. Nancy Strohm was elected president; Mary Gillard, vice-president; Margaret Kaufmann, secretary; and Carola Henrich, treasurer.

The Blue Chapter of the Girl Reserves has been busy this term keeping a scrapbook on the school's war activities and supplying ink to all the study halls. The girls hold very interesting meetings; on April 20 they heard Mary Morgan of CKLW speak on charm and personality.

The Conservation Club is one of the newest and most active clubs at Redford. The boys and their parents have one big meeting a month, at which they hear a speaker and see nature movies at the Art Institute or the Rackham Building. The main purpose of the club is the preservation of wild life. To that end, the members financed and sponsored the double assembly in which Jack Van Coevering showed his movies on wild life. Other activities of the club this term were chess and checker playing, camp cooking, tying flies, practicing archery, and fly casting.

The Gray Chapter of the Hi-Y was in charge of the Freshman Mixer. The club also participated in the plans for the first evening dance of the semester.

The Adcraft Club furnished publicity in the form of posters for all the school events of the year. Dick Sprague designed a stamp to be used on Adcraft posters so that the club would get some credit for its efforts.

This term has been a busy one for members of the Radio classes, what with the job of decorating the gym for the Spring Swing and planning the club picnic. At the club meetings the members produce and present radio plays for criticism and review. This term the group has done much outside work at W J B K and in churches.

The Stagecraft Club has two requirements for membership—a high C or B average and the desire and willingness to give all the time the job needs. The stage crew has been unusually busy this year with two Red Cross Shows, the Senior Play, Spring Concert, and, of course, graduation.

The Library Staff, which is composed of eleven girls studying library science, takes charge of the incoming and outgoing books and keeps the bookshelves and magazine room in order.

This year, as in previous years, the Vigilanti Club took charge of selling Easter Seals for crippled children. After all the seals were gone, the girls sold the remaining bunny pins for ten cents each. Altogether, $70.45 was collected.

The White Chapter of the Girl Reserves has really been "on the beam" this term. At the Red Cross Benefit Show in March they sold candy, and they gave a farewell party for Miss Ruth Belew, former sponsor of the club, who left Redford last April for American Red Cross duty. The girls also had a lot of fun at a splash party with the Blue Chapter.

Typical of the fine school spirit shown by Redford students is this scene snapped during the exciting days of the paper drive, when everyone staggered to school under twenty pounds of old newspaper; jalopies whizzed around the parking lot sagging with several tons of magazines; and all the fellows got out of their classes to throw newspapers up on a truck. Those were the days when the red lines of the paper drive thermometers in the hall rose to stupendous heights before somebody remembered that there were more than 1000 pounds in a ton.

Through the efforts of every student, over 58 tons of paper were collected in this drive.

Redford students really went all out for the war effort this term—starting with the Fourth War Loan and continuing right on through the Red Cross Drive, Paper Drive, and Fifth War Loan Campaign.

The Fourth War Loan Drive was an outstanding success. Over four hundred gallants succeeded in selling a grand total of $350,000 worth of bonds. $235,000 was in series E bonds, and a Mitchell B-25 Bomber was bought for our armed forces with the money. To add to this glory, 100 gallants received engraved citations from the treasury department for sales surpassing $1,000.

At a very impressive patriotic rally on May 11, out on Sawyer Field, a B-25 Bomber flew low over the crowd so that the student body could see what kind of plane its bonds had bought. At this same rally, sixteen trees were dedicated for the 16 gold stars on the service flag, as a living monument to the brave Redford boys who gave their lives for their country.

Four thousand, four hundred and thirty-four dollars was collected by Redford High for the American Red Cross. This sum was the greatest ever donated by any school in Detroit at any time.

The paper drive started Red Cross collections well on the way with $800, and individual student contributions amounted to $2,534. The school clubs donated $500, and the Red Cross Variety Show, put on by students, brought in $600 and made the final total.

Shown at the right is the enormous Red Cross made up of tiny crosses. When a student contributed fifty cents, he received one of these crosses and wrote on it the name of a serviceman.
